

It is wonderful not to get up to get the phone when doing the following: spending time with family, making or having dinner, going over homework with children, cleaning up the house, resting after a hard day at work. I receive soliciations in the mail that are tossed in the trash - why do I need to be bothered by annoying phone calls? If the Telephone Consumer "Protection" Act is not enforced properly then my family and I will be open targets for the harassing calls that we just don't need or want, oh and I have gotten them on Sunday's at 8 a.m. Please PROTECT THE CONSUMER - NOT the solicitors.
